Free Elves / City Elves

The 'Free Elves' are more... lax than their Wood Elf counterparts. They, recognizing that the new world they found was not the Sky Biome, believe Elves should integrate with the other races, even to the point of intermarrying. For all their clarity of thought, they have trouble sticking with commitments: despite their long-lives, they have serious fear of lost opportunities.

Free elves are sometimes also referred to as "City Elves" due to their willingness to live in cities alongside other races.

Genetics

Free elves, practically recognizing the limitations of their genetic inability to reproduce, carefully changed their own culture to encourage marrying non-elf species, especially normal humans.
